Learn Practical Chinese

Connect with Chinese Kids

Dear parent,

Thank you for joining me for your child's trial class. It was a pleasure to learn with her, and I was very impressed by her.

She is a quick, focused and cooperative learner. She has excellent, natural pronunciation, which reflects the benefit of having started Mandarin at such a young age. She has already developed a strong foundation of vocabulary and learns new words quickly, supported by her very good short-term memory. Her ability to concentrate is also remarkable for her age.

Here is our Learning Progress.

Based on the trial class, I recommend focusing on the following learning goals:

Strengthening her understanding of vocabulary

We will make learning interactive by constantly checking Tahlia's understanding and connect Mandarin vocabulary with familiar objects from her daily life. This will help her build clearer and more accurate associations—for example, confidently connecting 蓝色 (lán sè) with the colour blue.

Building and speaking complete sentences independently

Tahlia can currently complete sentences with prompts. We will gradually reduce this support and give her more opportunities to construct and speak complete sentences independently.

Increasing the use of Mandarin as an instructional language

We will gradually introduce more classroom instructions in Mandarin. This will develop naturally over time as Tahlia becomes more familiar with the lesson routines and grows in confidence.

For the next stage, I recommend beginning with Level 2 of our programme: Introducing My Character's World.

This programme is designed for learners who have completed Level 1 and mastered approximately 100 words and 20 sentence patterns. Through a fun, creative project, Tahlia will design her own cartoon character and learn to describe its world. She will complete 14 missions based on practical communication topics while working towards using 200 words and 50 sentence patterns.

I would be very happy to hear any thoughts or suggestions you may have. If you and Tahlia are both happy with the proposed plan, we can arrange a regular weekly time—ideally one that will continue to suit her after she starts school in September.

Please find your child's class summary and review activities in the message below. She also has her personalised progress report from now on.

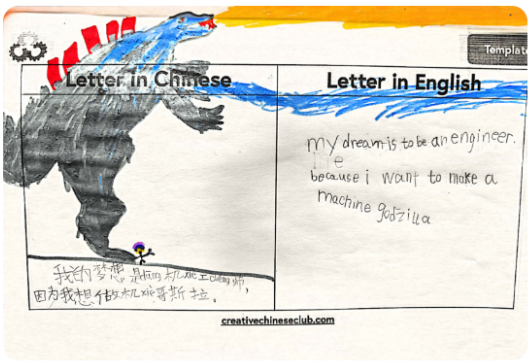
I look forward to supporting your child on the next stage of her Mandarin journey.

Why Learn with us?

We teach practical Chinese so your child can learn to connect with real Chinese kids.

Mandarin made fun

Through interactive games, stories, and cultural activities, your child will have fun while learning Chinese, making each lesson an activity to enjoy.



Chinese pen pals

When your child is ready, we'll match them with a friend in China. It's a fun way to practice Mandarin and learn about today's Chinese life and culture.

Global mindset

Chinese language and culture form an essential part of the world's bigger picture. As a US-registered company with team members across several countries and learners on four continents, our dream is to bring the world into our learners' Mandarin journey.

What do we teach?

We offer two learning paths — one focused on speaking and one on writing — so children can grow confidently in both communication and literacy. In each track, learners progress step by step from novice to advanced levels.
In the speaking track, young learners use creativity to express their own personalities in Mandarin.

Our writing track blends creative drawing with story-based learning to help children truly understand how Chinese characters are built.

Writing Track

	Low	Mid	High
Reading	Understand the logic of Chinese radicals.	Can read common Chinese character used in daily life.	Can follow the flow of ideas on complex topics.
Writing	Can write basic radicals and their related Chinese characters.	Can write simple sentences used in daily life.	Can write complex, detailed narrations.

For each level, we cover the same 15 core themes. These everyday-life topics help learners build practical Chinese that they can immediately use in real situations.

Topic Structure

How to do this together?

Together — you, your child, and us — we form a strong learning triangle.
Here's how we can team up to support your child's Mandarin journey.

What will we do?

✅ Share a pre-class challenge in advance
✅ Deliver engaging, interactive online lessons
✅ Provide a clear class summary afterward
✅ Document learning progress in a structured report

What will be required from your child?

✅ Bring the pre-class challenge to the lesson
✅ Attend class and participate actively
✅ Review learning between lessons

What will be required from you?

✅ Help your child attend each class
✅ Guide your child with the pre-class challenge
✅ Support your child with review activities
✅ Track your child's learning progress
